Labor Bill Approved By Lower Chamber; Senate Action Next

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—A compromise bill to clamp restraints on strikes and unions won final approval of the House today by the terrific margin of 320 to 79, far more than enough to over-ride a presidential veto.

The measure now goes to the Senate, where backers predict it will pass tomorrow, also by a long-sided vote. The Senate passed its original labor bill, 68 to 24, or considerably more than the two-thirds necessary to nullify a veto.

The final tally in the House today showed 217 Republicans and 103 Democrats for, 66 Democrats, 12 Republicans and one American-Laborite against.

Although the bill's backers are sure it will become law whatever President Truman does, he is facing one of the most momentous decisions of his career because of its possible effects on the 1948 elections.

Advocates and opponents of a veto are building up pressure on the White House, but the President remains silent on his intentions.

In today's hot debate, House supporters of the measure said it is a means of meeting John L. Lewis "face to face" and of avoiding "economic chaos."

Opponents denounced it as "an evil thing" turned out by "labor haters." And they went down battling.

Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich) made a last-minute try to bottle the bill up again in a Senate-House committee that put it in compromise form. He admitted he was whipped before he started—and his motion lost on a 245 to 55 standing vote.

Just before the vote on passage, Democratic leader Rayburn of Texas protested that the bill is unfair, and "is as clear as mud" to members, who he said had insufficient time to study it.

He ridiculed various strike-curb provisions and declared:

"Our friend, John L. Lewis, can declare every mine in the United States unsafe."

Republican leader Halleck of Indiana replied that the people are depending on Congress for "some fair, decent, reasonable, but courageous legislation."

"That," Halleck said, "is exactly what we have here."

Representative Klein (D-NY) told the House that many who vote for the labor bill will not return to Congress after the 1948 elections. The measure, Representative Landis (R-Ind) said, "will take care of" (Continued on Page Seventeen)

SENATE GROUP OKAYS BILL TO UNIFY SERVICES

New Council Would Direct All Operations; Proposal Not Aimed at Merger

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—By a vote of 12 to 0, the Senate armed services committee today approved legislation to put the Army, Navy and a new, separate air force under the "unified direction" of a secretary of national security.

The Republican leadership has put the measure on the calendar for Senate action this session. Debate is expected to start next month. The House expenditures committee has held hearings but has not yet approved a bill.

The committee deferred until next week a decision on whether to hold hearings on a universal training program urged by a presidential study commission as vital to national safety.

Chairman Gurney (R-N.D.) declined to state his views on whether there should be hearings, but he told reporters with respect to the proposed training program:

"I'm for it—stronger than horse-radish."

The unification bill specifies that there shall be no merger of the armed services.

To meet long-argued objections that the Army might swallow up in a section saying the legislation does not authorize "the alteration or diminution of the relative status of the Marine Corps."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, told Gurney in a letter that despite some modification of the original draft of the bill, "I believe that the legislation in its present form presents a thoroughly practicable organization of the armed services which will permit us with increased economy and efficiency to do our" (Continued on Page Seventeen)

Wearing bright smiles of anticipation, 144 Pottstown Senior High school seniors left yesterday morning on a three-day trip to Washington. Sight-seeing tours of the nation's capital will highlight the trip for the group, one of the largest ever to travel from the school. They'll be back in Pottstown tomorrow night. Tornado Sweeps Path Through Texas Town

AMARILLO, Tex., June 4 (AP)—A small tornado damaged cotton warehouses and a few residences late today at Twitty, seven miles north of Shamrock in the Eastern Panhandle. No injuries were reported.

Many Inoculated Here Against Spotted Fever

Although no new cases of Rocky Mountain spotted fever were reported in Pottstown yesterday, the offices of physicians were flooded with calls as patients flocked in to be inoculated against the disease.

The doctors classed the response to their call for inoculation as "gratifying," as they commended the people living in tick infested areas for seeking immunization measures.

Meanwhile, Dr. Harry K. Marcy Jr., and Dr. Stanley M. Nowacki, Pottstown physicians, said the fever patients under their care were doing as well as could be expected. Dr. Nowacki pointed out that the disease runs a course of from two to three weeks and that his patient has had it for only a week.

Clarence Foreman, Royersford, State sanitarian for upper Montgomery county, began an investigation of the spotted fever cases yesterday which is expected to continue through today.

Foreman said the three cases reported in The Mercury yesterday were the first cases reported in this area this year.

Physicians continued to urge immunization against the disease yesterday.

Dr. Marcy said yesterday that while the injection of vaccine continues to be the tried and true method of immunization, a pre- (Continued on Page Seventeen)

Council Favors Age Limit of 18 for Drivers

By Staff Correspondent

NORRISTOWN, June 4 (AP)—A proposal to have the State legislature pass a law making 18 years the age limit of an automobile driver was discussed this afternoon when a meeting of the Montgomery County Safety council, O. C. Bearcraft, chairman, was held in Courtroom D, of the county courthouse in Norristown.

Action on making the proposed recommendation was deferred, however, when it was learned the bill hopper of the State legislature has been closed for this session. It was indicated action along this line might be taken at the next session by the council.

The council also is proposing more stringent laws as regards enforcement of traffic regulations. The rising tide of accidents, many of them fatal, has aroused safety organizations throughout the entire county.

Dr. Allen C. Harman, of Willow Grove, assistant county superintendent of schools, made a report in which he said the Driver Training Class of School Teachers would be given instruction Sept. 15-18, the sessions to be held in the Norristown Senior High school. Teachers from various High schools will then be given training which they will later impart to other teachers in their respective schools, later to be given to pupils.

The class leader will be Prof. Amos Nyhart, of State Teachers college, who will have a staff of instructors.

Harman said eight schools among them Pottstown, Norristown and Jenkintown have signed up to participate in the program.

Secretary E. Russell Matz, of Hatfield, reported plans are now completed for obtaining office space in the fire company's building on Penn street, Norristown.

The Montgomery County Boroughs association has pledged support to the movement. Ray Fiero, of Conshohocken, yesterday assured the organization of this support.

Support of 30 unions of the CIO was also assured by James J. Costello, of Ardmore.

At a meeting of a group of residents from the section with Walter L. Murphy, owner of the Murphy Bus Lines.

Murphy expressed favor with the committee's request, but explained that a franchise for the route must be approved by the State Public Utilities commission.

The buses would run out Manalapan street to Pine Forge and probably would loop over Battle-snake Hill, return to Pine Forge and then to Glasgow and Pottstown. It was explained by Mrs. Anna Easch, a member of the committee, that much Melvin Rhoads is chairman.

CITY PARALYZED BY HEAVY FLOOD

Rutland, Vt., Suffers 2 Million Damage After 20-Year Record Rainfall

RUTLAND, Vt., June 4 (AP)—A flash flood roaring out of a broken power dam paralyzed this second largest Vermont city today causing damage estimated at $2,000,000, but the only feared casualty—a 13-year-old boy—was safe.

The flood waters that raced down East creek from the East Pittsford dam, four miles north of Rutland, receded rapidly, but the city's 18,000 inhabitants remained helpless without drinking water, power, electricity or gas and with upwards of 500 persons homeless.

Richard Lavietore, who police feared may have been swept to his death, was reported safe late this afternoon. Police said only that the boy "wandered home okay."

The Army and Red Cross rushed supplies here, the area hardest hit when a half-dozen New England rivers overflowed after yesterday's torrential downpour when almost four inches of rain fell.

Paradoxically, lack of water handicapped efforts to begin clearing away mud deposited by the flood, which destroyed pipelines to the city reservoir.

Emergency kitchens were set up and between 200 and 300 persons were being housed in the Memorial State armory.

Rail service to Canada through picturesque Central Vermont had to be re-routed as lines were washed out and at least one bridge near Rutland toppled—a twisted wreck. In adjoining New Hampshire, a landslide south of Littleton blocked the Boston & Maine's line between Woodsville and Berlin. A bus shuttle was set up between these communities.

With warm, clear weather to-night, the worst appeared over after one of the steadiest rainfalls that New England has experienced in 20 years. Fair, dry weather was forecast for tomorrow.

Trucks were hauling drinking water over hastily-repaired high ways to Rutland as the public works officials said it might be several days before mains carrying water from the city's reservoir could be repaired.

National Guardsmen ordered out by Governor Ernest W. Gibson patrolled the city's low-lying West End—excluding residents for health reasons because of the muck left by the flood.

The center of Rutland, situated on a hill, escaped as the full force of the flood was broken when the big Crittenden power dam serving as a basin for much of the drain from the adjacent Green mountains area held under terrific pressure—less than ten miles away.

Ideal Summer Weather Foreseen Again Today

Despite chill winds that kept the mercury hovering in the low 70s during the afternoon, a warm sun penetrated the cold yesterday with a promise of real Summer weather to come.

To prove this, the forecast for today is mostly sunny and slightly warmer. Considerable cloudiness is promised for tomorrow with warm temperatures and a humid atmosphere. Also, there is a possibility of showers later in the day.

Hungarian Minister Defies Red Regime, Raps Russians

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The Hungarian minister to the United States and three associates, accusing the Russians of trying to destroy "all non-Communist democratic forces" in Hungary, announced in a statement tonight that they will not recognize "the legality of the new Hungarian government formed under force."

Minister Aladar Szegedy-Maszar, 44, had previously informed the State department of his decision to defy the government's orders to return to Budapest.

Those who signed the 400-word statement in addition to the minister were Francis Nagy, 23-year-old attaché and son of the Russian-deposed premier of Hungary who is now in Switzerland; Stephen Borsody, 36, counselor, and Alexander Szasz, financial counselor.

Thus four out of the seven members of the diplomatic staff at the Hungarian legation asserted their defiance of the Communist regime. Of the other three, counselor Paul Marik is the ranking diplomat and he was reported waiting for a clarification of his position.

There was a similar split in the administrative staff of the embassy with four out of eight members declaring their refusal to recognize the new regime, one tentatively taking that position and three refusing to do so. Thus the whole legation was split approximately down the middle.

In the statement the diplomats declared that the process of Soviet control in Hungary "can not be stopped by the internal democratic forces in Hungary for Hungary today is occupied by the Soviet army and controlled by its agents who are making every effort to consolidate their grip over the country in order to remain in power at the time of the Russian evacuation following ratification of the peace treaties."

122 New Street Signs Are Ordered by ABC

Carl Binder, president of the American Business club, last night told members at a meeting that 122 new street signs for the borough have been ordered and will be shipped as soon as the manufacturer finds materials to make them.

When placed, new signs will cover all street corners in the town.

He also announced the resignation of Donald Kastle, scoutmaster of Boy Scout Troop 10, sponsored by the ABC. Kastle is moving out of town. A new scoutmaster is being sought.

The session was attended by 33 members.

Truman Asks Congress to Speed Legislation on Universal Training

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—President Truman today prodded Congress for (1) "early consideration" of universal training and (2) swift renewal of a batch of war powers slated to end June 30.

At the same time, the White House put a damper on speculation that Mr. Truman will act immediately on the $4,000,000-a-year income tax cut voted yesterday. Secretary Charles G. Ross said action at least won't come before Mr. Truman leaves Friday morning for Kansas City.

The bill reached the White House this afternoon. The President has ten days to approve or veto. Sundays don't count.

Representative Martin (R-Mass), House leader, told reporters today that a veto will spell the death of the bill, because its advocates don't have enough votes to override.

A meeting of the cabinet was called for tomorrow and it was indicated that the tax cut may be a prime topic. This inference arose from what Secretary of the Treasury John Snyder said in canceling a conflicting engagement. He explained the session was called because of "congressional action" yesterday.

Ross described it as the regular cabinet meeting, advanced from Friday as a convenience to the President. Mr. Truman will fly Friday to Kansas City where on Saturday he will address a memorial meeting of the 35th Division association, his World War I outfit.

Mr. Truman sent Congress today a report of his advisory commission which recommended unanimously a system of mandatory military training for boys at age 18. He pointed out that the men-in-civilian group called it "an" (Continued on Page Twenty-one)

GRADUATES TOLD EDUCATION NEED OF FEDERAL AID

North Coventry Pupils Hear NEA Official Cite Crisis in Schools Today

"The only remedy for the educational crisis that is facing America today is Federal support, if we are to eliminate inequality of education, which is unjust and undemocratic."

This, in the opinion of Dr. Belmont Farley, director of the press and radio division of the National Education association, speaking before the graduating class of North Coventry High school last night, is the nub of the solution for the vast problems facing American education today.

Forty-one students were graduated in ceremonies held in the school auditorium before an audience of approximately 350 parents and faculty and school board members.

The Missouri-born educator, who has been affiliated with the NEA since 1929, sketched briefly the various shortcomings in the educational system, rounding out an evening of discussions by members of the graduating class on the same theme—"The Educational Crisis in America Today."

He told of the traditional American faith in education, as well as of the long struggle in Pennsylvania as well as in other states for free instruction.

"The biggest stump we have to plow in the field of education is the reluctance of many to pay for the education of other peoples' children," he maintained.

Asking for the greater recognition of teachers as professional people, Dr. Farley asserted:

"We need more teacher-training institutions, and one of the purposes of the National Education association is to establish the centers."

The speaker deplored the low pay, low morale, and low social prestige of teachers generally, citing these as some of the factors which keep young people from entering the teaching profession.

Discussing the decline of teaching standards in Pennsylvania in the past few years, Dr. Farley cited figures showing that 4800 substitute teachers were in the schools in 1946, as compared to 2652 in the 1943-44 school year. These men and women have only the legal requirements for teaching, and are issued emergency certificates.

He concluded his address with a plea for Federal support of schools (Continued on Page Twenty-one)

Army Pilot Faces Charge as Result Of Low Flying Here

Charges have been filed against John E. Kurtz, of 439 York street, by State police of the West Reading barracks for low and reckless flying over Pottstown the past Saturday morning, police said last night.

Local police received many complaints from residents Saturday when they believed he was flying his AT-6 Army trainer plane too low for safety.

Kurtz, a first lieutenant in the 438th Army Air Forces Base unit, Air Reserve, faces a possible $200 fine or 30 days in jail, or both, in addition to action by Army and the Civil Aeronautics Authority.

Pvt. William Hall, aviation investigator of West Reading State police barracks, brought the charges.

The case will be heard by Justice of the Peace Richard H. Cadmus.

Early End to Rationing Of Sugar Is Indicated

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson held out today the possibility of a fairly early end to the rationing of sugar to housewives.

Citing a large Cuban sugar crop, Anderson told a Senate banking sub-committee that "we are getting very close to the point" where rationing might safely be ended.

There are also some arguments against it, he added, and "I think it is a pretty close question."

Under the law, sugar rationing will end Oct. 31, but the secretary can end it sooner if he deems it wise.

CAB Passes Pilots Found Deficient, Aero Group Told

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., June 4 (AP) — Charges that the Civil Aeronautics board in Washington has been granting flight certificates to pilots whom medical examiners found physically deficient were made to the Aero Medical association today, but these handicapped pilots, the report stated, apparently have had no more accidents than men sound in health and limb.

THURSDAY, JUNE 5, 1947

A life spent worthily should be measured by deeds, not years.
—Clarke.

The Morning After
When the writer of this column was a sports reporter he never could understand how judges or referees at boxing matches could vote a contest a "draw." Surely no two boxers could have landed the same number of telling blows, scored the same in footwork and brain-work to warrant being called absolutely even.
There had to be a winner, the reporter reasoned.
Soon he learned differently.
Fight officials, faced with the tough task of making a decision on a close fight, took the easy way out. They figured they'd use the "popular" method. Call it a draw. Then neither side would complain.
The method wasn't very popular. Fight judges and referees usually lack courage when they fall back on the "draw" decision.

It seems strange that the six Pottstown councilmembers resorted to the "not voting" dodge when borough council voted on a zoning change the other night.
It was proposed to make King street, east of Charlotte to Adams, a commercial zone—
where stores and the like might be opened.
Twelve councilmen voted for the change.
Six were recorded as "not voting."
Does that mean they have no minds of their own?
Surely they must have opinions. People just don't go around having blank minds.
Where do they stand on controversial issues?
The public ought to know, because it hardly wants to elect blanks to borough council!

Maybe you noticed, too, that Councilman
J. Max Creswell found himself deserted by his compatriots when a public vote was taken on a fireman's issue.
It seems that the borough fire committee had voted, in committee meeting, to lop off a $1400 item it deemed a frill. But when a vote was called for, Mr. Creswell's fellow councilmembers repudiated their committee vote.
They may have been impressed by the attendance of a large group of firemen.
Which also brings to mind: How did the firemen know council planned to lop off what it considered a frill?

Gossips in Pottstown borough chamber the other night viewed with alarm the municipal activity of William J. Boden, local Republican leader.
They accused him of palling with the Democrats because he has been a leading figure in the fight for equalized assessments, because he has taken a leading role in the zoning changes, and because he is a member of the Citizens' Airport committee.
"He's carrying water on both shoulders," whispered one of the alarm-viewers.
Which proves that you're damned if you do and you're damned if you don't.
Only it's too bad that a person like Mr.
Boden, who truly has the interest of the community at heart, should come in for such unjust criticism.

Republicans Eye Patronage
MORE than 700 nominees for postmaster-ships, scattered from Maine to Hawaii, are wondering: What goes on here?
Caught in the political squeeze between a Democratic Administration and a Republican Senate, they are the direct victims of one of the oldest fights of two-party government—patronage.
Apparently the Senate is determined to hold up confirmation of all patronage appointees in the hope of saving the jobs for loyal Republicans—after the 1948 Presidential election.
Nobody can really criticize the GOP tactics.
They are only doing what the Democrats did in a big way in the last half of the Hoover Administration. Then the second session of the 72nd Congress allowed 1662 postmaster nominations to gather dust without a single confirmation.
Actually, of course, there is no serious interference with the Post Office's business.
New nominees take over when appointed, as acting postmasters subject to final confirmation. The only trouble is that they are not sure they'll keep their jobs.

Borrowing Increasing INSTALLMENT finance companies report up-to 30 percent more loans made during the first quarter of 1947 than during the same period of last year. Reason: More manufactured goods are available, while cash savings are rapidly drying up.

Driving Pleasure Spoiled
To the Editor: The other evening while out riding I marvelled at the beauty of the countryside at this time of the year. Everything seemed so lovely with the trees cloaked in a beautiful green and the wildflowers just about opening their buds.

Suddenly I was jolted from my pleasantry when somebody in the automobile in front of ours threw a bag of garbage out the window and onto the side of the road.

Immediately there was an ugly sore in the scenery which certainly took all the joy out of that particular section. In fact it spoiled the rest of the ride for me, as the throwing of that garbage on such a beautiful landscape seemed to me to be sacrilegious.

If people want to dump garbage, why don't they take it to the borough dump at the Madison street bridge rather than spoil Nature's beauty?

And I should also like to ask those who have paper wrappers, etc., in their cars not to throw them out but rather take them home with them and dispose of them in the usual way.

It would require such little effort and it would add so much to the pleasure of those who enjoy the countryside as much as I do.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

VERA T., 39, is an attractive widow with a 10-year-old son.

"Dr. Crane, I was happily married for 15 years," she began. Then I lost my husband in the war. The shock was so great I could hardly realize he was gone for a long time afterwards.

"It has been three years since his passing, but I keep dreaming about him.
It seems he is trying to get into the house. I feel that he is cold and begging for food."

"Last week was the anniversary of his death. I woke up at 5 a.m. and felt so upset, I immediately called my sister.
Then I fainted. My son heard me fall and called a neighbor."

"Dr. Crane, I just feel as if my life were futile and empty. Is it always going to be like this?"

The loss of a loved one, around whom we have entwined our interests and habits for many years, is a tremendous emotional shock. In such an event, everybody is quite justified in feeling blue and disconsolate. But not for long!

As intelligent human beings, we must realize that happiness is something we can build and then rebuild. There is a definite psychological technique for doing this. And it will always produce results
if we do our part.

Unhappy people are selfish and intro-verted. They keep focussing their attention on themselves and their great sorrow, instead of paying attention to other people, many of whom may be far more miserable and unfortunate.

To maintain a stable personality which can withstand even the greatest emotional shock, we must develop a multitude of bonds that tie us to our environment. We must have many outside interests.

There are many childless married women today who are in grave emotional danger. They love their husband, their cat or dog, and possibly a parent or sister, but that is about all.

We should love many people in order to be well-adjusted personalities. Parents, brothers and sisters, our mates or sweethearts, children, pets, members of our club or Sunday school class, and Scout troop, school chums, etc.

If there is a man or woman invests all of his love in one person, the death of that individual produces an unusually severe shock. If there were 19 other friends and relatives in whom he had also invested affection, they would cushion the shock of loss of his wife or child.

Recently a physician friend of mine
lost his only child, aged 15, by pneumonia.
His wife became almost comatose. Her family as a result. Because he had a heavy medical practice, his attention was diverted from his grief sufficiently to keep him normal and emotionally stabilized.

But why parents will be so short-sighted as to have only one child is a modern mystery. After investing love and devotion for 15 years in a youngster,
the loss of that love object is a terrific strain on the parents.

If there is a two or three other children to divert their attention, they would not suffer such danger to their sanity and happiness.

In order to build happiness, we need numerous social ties. But it takes courage and effort to make such connections.
By sitting at home waiting for friends,
we simply grow more and more intro-verted.

The way to live is to be more than half busy in the process of overcoming strangers. Successful salesmen don't sit at home waiting for customers.

Not only must we meet customers halfway, but the letter carrier, the postman,
and usually the entire trip in meeting them.

So push yourself and your well-Smile first and say "Hello." Join a church. Travel. Get out and meet people after the sermon without waiting for him to speak first. Act friendly and sociable and you will make friends. Remember, the turtle never gets anywhere until he sticks his neck out. Do likewise!

WASHINGTON
Navy Warfare
Progresses Fast

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON, June 4 — "Push-button warfare" will make its grisly appearance far more rapidly on the water than on the ground or in the air, according to confidential studies which various branches of the armed services have made of weapons that were ready toward the close of World War II.

Air and land experts at G.H.Q. believe that it will be ten or 15 years before there is any radical change in their basic equipment, tactics or strategy.

Not so with the Navy, which will be peculiarly vulnerable to the atom bomb, rockets, jet-propelled planes, guided missiles etc. Within five years, it is expected that the fleet of the future will be as different from the fighting vessels of World War II as armor-clad, coal-burning ships varied from the wooden, sailing models that preceded them before the Civil War.

The blueprints for new, naval forces are already on the draft boards at Moscow, London and Washington.

"INTERCEPTORS": It is generally agreed that the capital ship as we know it today—a modern city populated by 3000 men and ordained for ship-to-ship combat—soon will disappear. It will be too vulnerable to strange designs of destruction.

It will be supplanted by heavily armed ships equipped with a store
of guided missiles instead of big guns, which cannot reach remote enemies
in the skies or on the water. Elimination of heavy 16 and 14-inch artillery will make weight for more armor and a greater store of pushbutton, offensive weapons.

It is probable that large-size submarines, which can dive quickly beneath the waves, will become atom-bomb carriers. They will be so designed that they can sneak close to an enemy coast, and catapult their fissionable weapons over industrial centers. Standing off New York, for instance, they could hurl atomic missiles as far inland as Pittsburgh and Detroit.

Aircraft carriers will also go the way of the big, bruising battleship.
They will be replaced by smaller ships known as "interceptors." They will be equipped with pilotless, remote-controlled planes. Their assignment will be to destroy or divert rockets, guided missiles and atom-loaded planes aimed at the U.S.

As evidence of new naval styles,
England is only one major battleship in commission, but intends to build no more of the old type. There is no provision in the current, U.S. navy appropriations bill for capital construction.
Nor did the Admirals ask any money for this purpose.

RESPONSE: Republicans on Capitol
Hill who want to still William Benton's so-called "Voice of America" missed a bet
when they failed to ask Chester Bowles former advertising partner about the response which he obtained from his $30-000,000 venture in foreign propaganda.

The fact is that, if the Benton & Bowles publicity firm got as much as they did from their expenditure of public funds, they would have gone back a week after they opened their
New York shop.

Although Benton had 2,000,000,000 potential listeners to his broadcasts, from February, 1946, until May of 1947, he received only 140,000 letters from this vast audience.

And those communications came in after the Benton broadcasters had begged, bullied and wheedled the auditors into writing their reaction to the costly program. It was most spontaneous outpouring of emotion from abroad.

RUSSIA: Only four letters have come from Russia, whose "Iron curtain" the Benton ballyhoo is supposed to penetrate.
The reason may be that there are only 400,000 radio receiving sets inside the Soviet, and most of these are owned by Stalin and Politburo members, not by Russian workers or peasants.

Three of the communications from Russia simply asked for aid in finding relatives in the United States. The fourth criticized our professions of democracy. It questioned whether we knew the meaning of "democracy" in view of our treatment of the 12,000,000 colored people in the U.S.

MARRIAGE: A total of 73,000 letters was inspired by the "Voice of America" in the first four months of 1947. Twenty thousand came from American-controlled zone in Germany, and another 20-000 from Italy. Thus, only 33,000 originated within the countries where we seek to counteract Communism.

Forty percent of the writers are women. Most of their letters ask for personal favors, information or advice—
a sort of Dorothy Dix forum. Many ask merely the location of ex-GIs, with marriage in mind.

QUERIES: Friendly people, like the British and Scandinavian countries, want information on industrial, technological or scientific advances over here. The "Voice of America" admittedly is not equipped to answer these queries. But a letter carrying a three-cent stamp could elicit the desired data from other agencies whose appropriation is much smaller than the Benton bill of $30,000,000.

PALESTINE: Question from T.A.M. of Palestine: "How does one rationalize
the contention over a few square miles in Palestine, when we read of vast undeveloped areas in Africa? Would present conditions in the world justify the United Nations in reviewing the opportunity for colonization in uninhabited lands?"

Answer: To ask that question, which has been considered by U.N., is natural.
But it is unnatural to ask people to pull up stakes and quit their political and spiritual home for the Dark Continent or any other place. How would T.A.M. like to leave home and country for some strange land, especially if he had to do so at the behest of a foreign power?

Awfully Bad Spot for Wing Trouble

In Hollywood

By JIMMIE FIDLER

HOLLYWOOD Calif., June 4 —
Ray Milland postcards it from England, whither he voyaged on the Queen Mary recently. The first night out from New York, finding one of the lounges completely deserted, he sat down at the piano and played for a few minutes. The next day, as he strolled the promenade deck, he heard two young ladies talking. "There he is now," said one, inclining her head in Milland's direction. "Isn't his piano playing divine!" said the other. "I've become accustomed to the attentions of movie fans," Ray writes, "but to hear my efforts at the piano praised left me completely groggy. It also left me with a rather red face—when I discovered that the two fans were talking not about me, but about Arthur Schnabel, who stood only a few feet away."

Enterprise Pictures, for "They Pass This Way," is de-modernizing the New Mexico village of San Rafael, taking down telephone lines, street lamps and illuminated signs to make it look like a frontier town of the last century. The deal was negotiated through the agency of 62-year-old Elifera Barela, San Rafael's principal landlord and patriarch. Barela imposed one condition: he insisted that his five "kids" must be given minor parts in the picture. The five youngsters proved to be men ranging in age from 55 to 65!

For every new prospect being signed today, three or four players are being dropped from the major studio contract lists. At Warner Brothers, for instance, Arlene Dahl and Martha Vickers, both in the featured player class, were handed contract termination notices the other day. It looks like the money-moon is over, and if that surmise is correct, hard times are ahead for perhaps 50 percent of the actors and actresses in picture business.
Retrenchment is now the order of the day, and the big producers, terrified by falling box-office and soaring production costs, are very apt to cut adrift players in the picture. The few youngsters proved to be men ranging in age from 55 to 65!

Remember Steve Cochran's role in "The Best Years of Our Lives"?
Well, if you don't, there's no need to take it to heart, for he played little more than a bit. He was the "other man" whom Dana Andrews found in his wife's apartment. But that role was enough to win him stardom in one town at least. In Laramie, Wyo., he was billed on the theater marquee above Frederic March, Myrna Loy, Dana Andrews and Teresa Wright. Steve was raised in Laramie, and local pride
did the rest.

The other day some local statistician added up a column of figures and came to the conclusion that Ingrid Bergman is now the highest paid star in show business. The conclusion may be true—if "Arch of Triumph" and a couple of other pictures in which she will own a percentage by the end of this year prove to be big money makers. But from the standpoint of actual, guaranteed salary, she'll have to take second place to one radio star, who is now receiving a wage of $973,000 a year for three hours work a day. Incredible as it may seem, he's Martin Block, a disc jockey!

Asset, Not Liability

A SINGLETON of some suit opposite your partner's No Trump bid is not necessarily a liability unless it is in the suit he bid earlier. If it is in the opponents' suit, your inability to furnish two leads of it for finesses, or to help solidify the suit, is not important since your partner probably will not lead that suit at all. In that event, your shortage may be considered an asset, as it is only through the shortage that you have the length he likes in your other suit or suits.

North took that contract from No Trump into Hearts because of his singleton in diamonds. He had what appeared two good reasons for it.
First, his trumps probably would furnish a trick or two by ruffing, which could not be scored at No Trump. Second, he considered it bad to leave a No Trump bid in if he had a singleton. His first reason was quite valid, but the second one worse than useless, since that singleton was the cause of his having desirable length in the black suits—an asset.

If North had known positively from the bidding that South had five or more trumps, his choice would have been emphatically the right action. But he didn't know.
He merely reckoned the suit was "probably" that long.

After the diamond K, West, seeing the singleton, switched to his heart 9, which South won with the 10. South led a spade, which the A won, and then West offered the club 2, which East got with the
A. That made three tricks for the defense, and it was impossible to keep East from getting the setting trick in trumps.

If North had left the 3-No Trump in, eight tricks could have been scored in the two majors and it would have been impossible to keep South from scoring the game trick in one of the minors.

New Jersey Legislator Demands Military Supervise Production of Atomic Bomb

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP) — Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, (R-NJ), chairman of the House Un-American Activities committee, said today that "fellow travelers, if not actual members of the Communist party, have ensconced themselves in the atomic energy plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn."

"The atomic energy commission must come to grips with the infiltration of its own organization," he declared in the current issue of Liberty magazine. He urged that atomic bomb production and research be placed under full military control.

"On a recent visit to Oak Ridge, I was startled to find how many Communist suspects were on duty there. I examined Army intelligence reports on a number of men holding strategic positions," he said. "Several of these dossiers showed, in my opinion, very serious cases. Thomas said that in their efforts to pry loose information, Communists make every effort to use the cluster of associations set up by the atomic scientists themselves."

"Each of hundreds of scientists has knowledge that could shorten an enemy's time in perfecting the bomb. If five key men could be subverted, years could be saved," he added.

At Oak Ridge, Thomas said, he also noticed an "absence of elementary security precautions. There is nothing to stop anyone from climbing the fence, even in daylight, and approaching within perhaps 75 yards of one of the three widely-separated plants. If anyone were bent on sabotage, it would be possible to do considerable damage at 75 yards even with hand weapons." The representative declared "Atomic production and research should remain for the present entirely a military province."

"The Atomic Energy act of 1946 is unrealistic in that it places this vital weapon in the inexperienced hands of civilians. A further flaw lies in the security provisions, which authorize the FBI to investigate the personnel, but give it no authority to bar undesirable. The FBI is merely to report the facts to the civilian commission."

Dr. Sherbon is improved After Serious Operation

The condition of Dr. John B. Sherbon, 513 King street, is improving, Capt. David Sherbon announced yesterday.

Dr. Sherbon was admitted to Reading hospital on May 19, and on May 23 underwent a serious operation. The operation was performed by Dr. Wellington Lebkicker, staff physician of the hospital.

It will be necessary for Dr. Sherbon to have several further operations, his son said.

Capt. Sherbon is home on an emergency leave from his Army duties in the European theater to be with his family during his father's illness.

The leader of the first crusade was a Belgian, Godfrey of Bouillon, who became the first king of Jerusalem.

Obituaries

Funeral services for OLIVER D. NEUMAN, 523 KING STREET, were held at 2 p. m. yesterday from a funeral home at 466 North Franklin street, with the Rev. Delaine E. Story, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiating.

Bearers at the interment in St. Peter's Reformed church cemetery, Knauertown, were Charles and David Towers, Donald Henry, George McCulley, George Mohn and Roscoe Shinehouse.

Funeral services for MARY A. KELLY, 740 WALNUT STREET, who died in Pottstown hospital Tuesday afternoon, will be held from her residence Saturday morning at 8 o'clock. A mass of high requiem will be celebrated in St. Aloysius church at 9 a. m., with interment in St. Aloysius cemetery, High street.

Karfunkle Convicted Of Buying Hosiery Stolen at Trappe

By Staff Correspondent
NORRISTOWN, June 4 — Philip Karfunkle, 41-year-old New York and North Wales hosiery manufacturer, today was convicted of receiving stolen goods by a jury of eight women and four men who deliberated for two hours in Criminal court.

His conviction came less than 24 hours after his nephew, Milton H. Kaye, 41, of Philadelphia, was found guilty on similar charges.

Both men were alleged to have purchased over 800 dozen pairs of women's nylon hosiery stolen from the Roberts Hosiery company, Trappe, Oct. 20, 1946, and the Furlong Hosiery company, Furlong, Bucks county, June 24, 1946.

Immediately after the jury returned its verdict, Judge Harold G. Knight ordered Karfunkle's bail increased from $2500 to $4000. He will remain free pending action by the court on his motion for a new trial.

Kaye also is at liberty under bond, having asked for another trial, but his bail remains at $2500.

The two men are accused by the Commonwealth of buying the stockings from Nicholas Riccio, 33, of Colmar, who turned State's evidence and testified against them. Riccio admitted that he and Raymond Cassel, 41, of Lansdale, committed the two burglaries. He sold loot from the Trappe robbery to Kaye for $2500, and from the Furlong job to Karfunkle for $2000.

The defendants denied their guilt, telling the jury that they believed Riccio was a black market operator instead of a thief.

Kaye, a former dentist and ex-Army captain, owns a hosiery manufacturing plant at Skippack which he purchased last year after his release from the service.

Stassen, GOP Candidate, To Confer With Dewey

WASHINGTON, June 4 (P)—Harold E. Stassen probably will meet with Gov. Thomas E. Dewey "within a day or two," an aide in Stassen's Washington headquarters said today.

He told a reporter the former Minnesota governor and the New York chief executive will meet in either Albany or New York.

Stassen, an announced candidate for the presidency, is expected to tell Dewey of his recent European trip during which he met with Premier Stalin.

The Dewey visit is part of Stassen's previously announced plan to confer with Republican leaders.

Quits Post

Resignation of Assistant Secretary of State Spruille Braden (above) yesterday was accepted by President Truman. Braden had been an outspoken critic of Argentina policy.

Scotland Yard Pair Charged With Theft

LONDON, June 4 (P)—Two Scotland detective sergeants were accused in the Bow street Criminal court today of taking upward of 500 pounds ($2000) in cash and watches from aliens whom they had been assigned to investigate.

The officers, Albert E. Compton and Harry G. Cooper, both 36, stated through counsel that they had "done nothing wrong in respect of any of the persons we interviewed." The action was adjourned to June 12.

The case attracted unusual attention because the officers were members of the so-called flying squad, traditionally the most loyal and incorruptible department of the famous police force.

Harrisburg Publisher Dies of Heart Attack

HARRISBURG, June 4 (P)—Charles H. Morrison, 63, president and general manager of the Harrisburg Patriot company, died today of a heart attack at his office in the Patriot building.

Morrison was named president of the Patriot company, publisher of the Morning Patriot and the Evening News, after the death of Vance C. McCormick, owner and publisher of the two newspapers. He was associated with the Patriot company for 45 years.

People of the United States are estimated to own 21 percent of the business capital invested in Canada.

County Legislator Urges Tax Statute Eased on Syrups

HARRISBURG, June 4 (P) — An administration bill to eliminate syrups used in making fountain sundaes from Pennsylvania's new soft drink tax was introduced today in the House.

Rep. Charles H. Brunner Jr. (R-Montgomery) submitted the measure a short time after Republican leaders disclosed plans to revise the soft drink tax law — most controversial of the new levies in Governor James H. Duff's $140,000,000 tax program.

The levy, imposing a tax of one cent on each 12 ounces or less of bottled soft drinks and one-half cent an ounce on syrups used in making fountain drinks, was attacked in the courts, even before it became effective the past Sunday.

Attorney General T. McKean Chidsey said the proposed change would continue the tax on fountain drinks but would "eliminate sundaes and other solid fountain products" from the levy.

Rep. Herbert P. Sorg, the Republican floor leader, said in disclosing the administration's decision to change the tax law a few days after it went into effect. "We want to avoid taxation of that syrup used for sundaes but which is not useable for soft drinks."

The new law was bitterly opposed by syrup makers and soft drink bottlers during its consideration by the Legislature. The Democratic minority also attacked it as unconstitutional.

Sen. Carleton Woodring (D-Northampton), who led the minority fight on legal aspects of the new tax when it passed the Senate on a straight party vote more than a month ago insisted then that under the law as written "even a housewife who makes simple syrup sugar and water — to bake a pie or cake would be required to take out a permit."

The suit attacking the constitutionality of the soft drink tax was filed by Marshall Morgan, Philadelphia attorney for a group of syrup manufacturers, in behalf of Dominick Mada, a Philadelphia taxpayer.

Morgan's petition, originally filed in the State Supreme court but taken later to the Dauphin county court, claimed the tax lacked uniformity, deals with more than one subject and was levied on property, and should have been on the basis of value instead of quantity.

The Dauphin county court has ordered the Commonwealth to answer the suit by June 23.

The House, meanwhile, postponed until Monday consideration of Senate changes in the administration labor program, including proposals to outlaw strikes by public employees and eliminate jobless benefit in labor disputes.

Chairman Adam Bower (R-Northumberland), of the House labor committee, said after a conference with Governor Duff that

Visits Truman

Argentine Ambassador Oscar Frassavich leaves the White House in Washington after a conference with President Truman, Secretary of State George C. Marshall and Undersecretary of State Dean Acheson. They discussed improved U.S.-Argentine relations.

his group would meet Monday to study the Senate labor bills to establish a "cooling off" period in advance of strikes and to permit the Pennsylvania labor relations board to conduct secret strike votes before and during labor walkouts.

"The governor told me he wants an opportunity to look over the labor bills before making any further recommendations on his own labor program," Bower told a reporter.

Cold Point Grange Host To Pamona Group Today

Pomona Grange, the collective organization of all Montgomery county's seven granges, will meet today in Plymouth township hall, Plymouth Meeting, for its second quarterly meeting of the year.

Gilbert S. Jones, an official of Valley Forge park, will speak on the history of the park.

The convention will hold a discussion on roses and a rose display, provided by all member granges, will be on exhibit.

Cold Point Grange is the host at the affair which starts at 10.30 a. m. and lasts through the afternoon. Area groups which will attend are Sanatoga and New Hanover granges.

HARVARD TO HEAR MARSHALL
WASHINGTON, June 4 (P) — Secretary of State Marshall will speak at exercises at Harvard university tomorrow, delivering what aides regard as an important, though brief address. He left here by plane this afternoon for Boston.

Duff Tax Program Undergoes Change; Gets Support of GOP Leaders in House

HARRISBURG, June 4 (AP)—A key plank in Gov. James H. Duff's education program, administration legislation broadening local taxing powers received today after it was amended to eliminate the possibility of "double taxation" on wages.

Designed primarily to increase the revenue-raising authority of all school districts except those of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, the measure was backed by an overwhelming vote in the Republican caucus which earlier this week had refused its approval without the wage tax amendment. A House floor vote immediately was set for Monday.

The two Houses of the Legislature, meanwhile, continued their separate ways on the teacher pay question with leaders on both sides of the capitol predicting differing salary bills will be pushed to a vote in each branch.

The House education committee reported for a vote, possibly tomorrow, the Sollenberger-Reiser bill—back by the Pennsylvania State Education association and known to teachers as 417—with the $1950 to $4000 salary range proposed by the Homsher-Berger measure in the Senate, but including two more mandated service increments of $150 and correspondingly fewer optional merit boosts.

On the other hand, the Senate gave initial reading to its teacher salary bill with its co-sponsor, Chairman Frederick L. Homsher (R-Lancaster) predicting it too would come to a vote and be passed in the upper chamber, possibly next week.

The local tax authority measure would enable all municipalities except counties, second class townships and the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh school districts, to impose levies on wages, sales and amusements as well as real estate.

Rep. H. G. Andrews, House minority leader, who sought vainly to eliminate all except cities from the new taxing authority, said it was "one of the most vicious, wide-sweeping assaults on the payrolls of this State that has ever been presented in this house."

He spoke while the lower branch considered an amendment to give communities where a wage-earner resides priority in the collection of any such payroll levy but obligating the taxpayer to pay the difference if the city where he works imposes a greater one than his home community.

Rep. Charles H. Brunner Jr. (R-Montgomery), co-sponsor of the measure with Rep. William J. Stonier (R-Lackawanna) said

CE Branch to Meet At Pughlown Tuesday

Plans for a meeting of North Branch Christian Endeavor to be held in Camp Sanknae, Pughlown, Tuesday night at 8 o'clock were made at an executive board meeting Tuesday night.

The program will be in charge of Enos Fyer, of Parkerford Brethren church, and will include a speaking contest between members of the Youth Temperance council.

Tuesday night's board meeting was held in the Pughlown home of Mrs. D. C. Knauer with President Clarence Quay presiding. Jane Hicks, president of Chester county Christian Endeavor, was present.

The provision was "designed to assure residents against double taxation." Excluded from the provision, however, were persons working in Philadelphia and residing in its suburbs.

Opposing granting such powers to school districts, Andrews said "there is a valid argument that the schools should be maintained by state-wide taxes. That argument is sound because there is better tax collection and the cost is less than under local subdivisions."

In another education development, Sen. Bertram Frazier (R-Phila.) introduced a bill in the Senate to allow the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh school boards to levy a tax to four mill personal property tax for school purposes. It supplemented a previous measure to authorize a mercantile license levy on wholesalers and retailers in those cities.

Proponents have estimated the proposed two levies will bring in at least $6,000,000 more in Philadelphia and a comparative sum in Pittsburgh.

Bullet Removed From Tol's Brain

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 4 (AP)—Fifteen-month-old Frederick Adkins Jr. will live, physicians said tonight, after removing a 22-caliber bullet from the baby's brain.

The surgeon who performed the operation said the bullet was found broken in two pieces.

The child was the victim of a stray shot that entered the Adkins home Monday night. His grandfather was rocking the infant in his arms when the pellet tore through a screen and pierced the baby's skull.

ITALIAN NOTE SOUGHT CHANGE IN PEACE PACT

Wherry Tells Senate Message Never Reached Body for Consideration

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Senator Wherry (R-Neb) told the Senate today that an official Italian message urging revision of the Italian peace treaty apparently had never been officially presented to the Senate for its consideration.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.), presiding officer of the Senate, to whom the communication was addressed, told Wherry he had thought the message was included in the transcript of foreign relations committee hearings on the treaty.

Vandenberg said when he discovered today that it was not in the hearings, he handed it to an official reporter with instructions to print it in the congressional record.

Wherry said the message was signed by "the honorable Terracini, president of the Italian constituent assembly." He read a copy of it to the Senate.

The communication asked that "arbitrary mutilation of our territory be annulled, together with the humiliating terms regarding our army, air force, and navy," and also that "the insupportable economic and financial penalties (reparations) be lightened."

Vandenberg told the Senate the message was made available to the press on March 2, "the day it came in." He also said the communication was written after Italy had signed the treaty, now up for ratification in the Senate.

The flurry came late in the second day of debate on treaties with Italy, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria, which are to be voted upon at 2 p. m. (Pottstown time) tomorrow. Earlier Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Eastland (D-Miss) had criticized the treaty sharply, while its terms were defended by minority leader Barkley (Ky.).

Bridges blasted at the treaty as "an invitation to war" and said it would make Italy "a vassal of Soviet Russia and her satellites." Barkley told the Senate that rejection of the treaty would be "repudiating the Government of the United States."

Senator Eastland touched off the day's fireworks by accusing Russia of forcing the resignation of Hungarian Premier Ferenc Nagy and reorganizing the Hungarian government "along Communist lines."

He said the United States must take a decisive stand against "Russian aggression even if it means the ejection" of the Soviet from the United Nations.

"If the United Nations organization is to function to prevent aggression and preserve the peace; if it is worth anything, then it must act to save Hungary in this case," he said.

"If Russia desires to get out of the U. N.," he added, "well and good."

House Turns Down Plan To Slice Army Strength

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The House listened to Rep. Short (R-Mo.) proclaim today that Russia understands only "the language of force" and then refused overwhelmingly to cut 30,000 enlisted men from the Army's planned strength next fiscal year.

"For God's sake let's don't weaken our defenses," the Missourian pleaded. He expressed fear that the House already has cut too deeply into Army and Navy budgets for next year.

A rousing voice vote turned down the reduction which was proposed in an amendment by Rep. Dirksen (R-Ill.). It would have cut an additional $125,000,000 from the Army pay allotment which Dirksen said is based on number of personnel that will not be attained.

The House, still considering the War department's $5,240,982,423 budget, deferred until tomorrow a decision on an amendment to boost funds for new airplane purchases by $40,000,000.

The department's total for all purposes as recommended by the appropriations committee is nearly $500,000,000 below Administration requests.

The appropriations committee previously had recommended, and the House upheld a cut of $12,041,821 in the pay allotment which the committee said will cause a reduction of 20,100 in army officer strength.

Dirksen's amendment would have required a cut of 30,000 in enlisted strength, another 5,000 in officer personnel, and additional paring of funds for flight pay for Air Corps personnel.

The Illinoisan told the House the Army could stand the additional reduction because its pay estimates were based on the assumption the Army's overall strength in the next fiscal year would be 1,070,000 officers and men. There won't be that many, he claimed.

The amendment brought from Chairman Andrews (R-NY) disclosure that the House armed services committee soon will send to the floor legislation for permanent and sharp cuts in officer strength of the regular army.

While Andrews disclosed no details, other members said the bill would make deep cuts in the number of high-ranking officers.

Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.) offered the amendment to add $40,000,000 to the $396,000,000 recommended by the appropriations committee for new planes, spare engines and parts. The committee had lopped off $44,000,000.

The effect of the cut, Mahon told the House, will be to reduce from 932 to 561 the number of modern new planes to be ordered next year. If upheld, it will mark the start "of the period that led to World War III," he said.

Sought May's Help, Garsson Tells Court

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Arms manufacturer Henry Garsson testified today he began getting ex-Congressman Andrew J. May to help him at the War department after, he said, the Army balked at accepting Garsson's idea for speedier wartime shell production.

Garsson and his brother, Murray, are on trial with May in Federal court on war bribe charges.

Red Method to Curb Atom Energy Termed Fraud by U. S. Delegate

LAKE SUCCESS, June 4 (AP)—The United States warned today that an atomic arms race is on and charged that a system of atomic control advocated by Soviet Russia would be a "fraud on the peoples of the world."

The United States said, furthermore, that such a system would breed antagonism, distrust and suspicion and increase the danger of atomic war.

Frederick H. Osborn, United States deputy on the United Nations atomic energy commission, made it clear that his country would exert every effort to maintain its ranking position on atomic armaments until satisfactory international controls were agreed upon by the countries of the world.

He said large atomic operations were going on in Canada, England and Russia as well as the United States.

Osborn spoke at a closed meeting of the political committee of the U. N. atomic commission after conferring yesterday in Washington with State department officials. His language was some of the sharpest so far heard in the year-long deliberations of the atomic commission.

Meanwhile, the U. N. Security council embarked on detailed study of a long report from its big five military staff committee on formation of a global police force. This contained wide differences between Russia and the other four military committee members — Britain, China, France and the U. S.

COAL PARLEYS END IN FAILURE; STRIKE SEEN

Operators and Lewis Await Truman Action On Labor Legislation

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Contract negotiations between John L. Lewis and the soft coal operators were washed out indefinitely today. Both sides settled down to wait for President Truman's action on the Taft-Hartley labor bill and the approach of a July strike deadline.

Both Lewis and the operators seemed content to mark time while pressures build up for a settlement.

The miners ace in the hole is the chance of a strike July 1, or July 7 at the latest. The operators have an eye on the restrictions on a mine walk-out which the labor bill will impose if the President signs it or Congress overrides a veto.

Action on the legislation seems likely by June 15. The Government's contract with Lewis and his 400,000 soft coal miners expires June 30 with the lapsing of wartime authority to retain Government possession of the mines.

The miners don't work without a contract, so a strike is considered likely if a new pact is not reached. The mines were seized in the past Spring's strike.

The miners have a ten-day vacation coming to them beginning June 27, and union officials have indicated the miners will consider themselves idle for that reason until July 7.

The United Mine Workers negotiators refused to attend a scheduled meeting with the Southern coal operators this morning after the producers broke their silence at a news conference and disclosed details of their wage offer to Lewis.

This offer for an 85-cent daily wage increase — to $12.70 — involved wiping out portal-to-portal pay for one hour each day. The Southern operators wanted to hike the daily wage, but to pay only for eight hours of productive time. Miners would walk or ride from the mine entrance to their place of work, sometimes several miles, on their own time.

The disagreement over wages brought about suspension of the Southern negotiations. The past Saturday the talks with operators of the North and West, representing about 75 percent of the industry, collapsed similarly in disagreement.

Lewis is asking a 35-cent hourly wage boost or $13.05 a day for eight hours in the mines, in place of $11.55 for a 9-hour day. The present contract with the government calls for one hour at time and one half to allow for portal-to-portal travel and eating time.

Twelve Drown As Vessel Sinks In Lakes Tragedy

FORT WILLIAM, Ont., June 4 (AP)—Twelve crew members, including three women, perished before dawn today when the fog-beset Canadian freighter Emperor rammed into Lake Superior rocks and sank in the worst Great Lakes shipping disaster in five years.

Twenty-one survivors were plucked from overturned and sinking lifeboats or from the cold rocks of lonely Isle Royale, a United States national park jutting up in bleak Lake Superior 48 miles from the tip of northern Michigan.

An 18-year-old coal passer, Ernest Albrecht, youngest of the survivors, described the scene as he waited to board a lifeboat.

"The ship gave a lunge and water came gushing over like a waterfall," he said from his hospital bed. "The port lifeboat was thrown against a bulkhead, with several persons in it."

"I thought my time had come."

"The next thing I knew I was in the water, floating with the (life) jacket. I couldn't swim in that water, it was so cold, so I drifted to an overturned life boat and hung on until I saw the American Coast Guard cutter coming."

British Investigate Powdered Letters

LONDON, June 4 (AP)—Scotland Yard disclosed today that several prominent Britons had received through the mail envelopes containing a watch-like mechanism and a bag of explosive powder—a plot that London papers immediately dubbed "murder by post."

The carefully-made booby traps were mailed from Italy. The British press association said the British apparently were "another attempt by Jewish terrorists to intimidate responsible people in Britain."

None of the envelopes exploded, because the recipients all became suspicious when they found a bulky cream-colored packet enclosed within the outer cover.

Scotland Yard declined to name the persons who received the explosives. Maj. Gen. Edward Spears, foe of Zionism and prominent advocate of the Arab cause in the Middle East, voluntarily disclosed that he was one of the recipients.

Spears said he could "jolly well guess" that the envelopes came from a Jewish underground organization in Italy, where the Stern gang recently claimed responsibility for an explosion in the British embassy.

20 Patients Rescued In Hospital Blaze

PHILADELPHIA, June 4 (AP)—Twenty patients, some of them seriously ill, were carried to safety this afternoon when fire broke out in an unused cottage on the grounds of All Saints hospital while most of the patients were enjoying a picnic on the lawn.

The evacuated patients were in other cottages connected to the burning building. The hospital, for treatment of tuberculosis, is operated by the Philadelphia Protestant Episcopal city mission.

Scout Troop Committee Meets Tomorrow Night

A meeting of the sponsoring committee of the South Pottstown Boy Scout troop will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the South Pottstown school building.

Efforts are being made to obtain the services of a scoutmaster for the 12 Scouts who meet each Wednesday night at the school building.

William Thornhill, of West Chester, is expected to attend the meeting. He is the assistant to Lewis Lester, chief scout executive of Chester county.

Members of the committee follow:

low: George Loht, chairman; George Copeland, secretary; the Rev. Robert M. Lamparter, treasurer; Myron Moyer, Irvin Pike and Doyle Sheasley, committeemen.

WOMAN IDENTIFIED

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—The body of a woman taken from the Hudson river the past week was identified today by the Missing Persons bureau as that of Mrs. Elsa Schweitzer, 35, wife of a Venezuelan government official, who disappeared the past Dec. 11 while on a Manhattan shopping trip.

U. S. airlines completed 95.8 percent of scheduled 1946 flights.

UNIFY SERVICES —

part in the preservation of peace and, if need be, the prosecution of war.

The Navy, opposed to the merger program first proposed by President Truman but willing to go along on the compromise unification bill, had no immediate comment.

Senator Robertson (R-Wyo.), who has opposed some provisions of the bill, was the only member of the committee who did not vote on the measure today. He was absent and Gurney said he "sent no word" as to his position.

These senators voted for the bill: Gurney, Bridges, (R-N.Y.); Wilson, (R-Iowa); Saltonstall, (R-Mass.); Morse (R-Ore); Baldwin (R-Conn.); Tydings, (D-Md.); Russell (D-Ga.); Byrd (D-Va.); Hill (D-Ala.); Kilgore (D-La.) and Maybank (D-S.C.).

Gurney reported, however, that Bridges and "others" on the committee reserved the right "to oppose certain ideas in the bill," and to offer amendments on the floor.

One last-minute change made in the bill permits the Army and Navy to continue in effect their wartime reorganization programs for two years, provided they are not changed by executive order in the meantime. The Army's reorganization program, for example, set up separate ground, air and service forces.

The bill establishes a "National Security Organization" under a cabinet rank secretary appointed by the President. The secretary, a civilian, would fix general policies and exercise "general direction" of the Army, Navy and Air Force. These three departments would be headed by secretaries without cabinet status.

The bill sets up these other units of the security organization:

1. A war council made up of the four secretaries, the chiefs of staff of the Army and Air Force and the chief of naval operations. The council would advise the security secretary on military policy.

2. A munitions board to co-ordinate procurement, production and distribution programs. Members: A chairman appointed by the President, and an undersecretary or assistant secretary from each of the three military departments.

3. A research and development board to advise on scientific research. It would be composed of a chairman named by the President and two representatives from each of the three departments.

4. Preparation of strategy and supply plans by the joint chiefs of staff. They also would establish unified commands where necessary and formulate policies for joint training of personnel.

The bill also provides for a National Security council headed by the President, a National Security Resources board under a chairman appointed by the President, and a central intelligence agency under the security council.

The arable land of the earth today is estimated at four percent of its surface.

Chinese Communists Extend Offensive

NANKING, June 4 (AP)—Chinese Communist troops barreled southward to within 20 miles of Mukden today, moving with such speed that military observers felt Changchun, Manchuria's capital, might fall.

Changchun, 175 miles northeast of Mukden, was by-passed and cut off by rail in the lightning drive which toppled Kalyuan, railway city 50 miles northeast of Mukden, Chinese press dispatches said.

Communist vanguards reached Fushun, coal mining city 20 miles east of Mukden.

(The Communist radio in North China boasted that Fushun and Yingpin, outer bastions of Mukden, "are now nakedly exposed to power." Full hammer blows of fast-moving armies under Gen. Lin Piao, Lin Piao, the Communist commander-in-chief in Manchuria.)

19 Newsmen Arrested By Chinese Officials

SHANGHAI, June 4 (AP)—Nineteen Chinese newspapermen remain under arrest and four newspapers still are closed since the government two weeks ago began its first crackdown on the press in more than a year of freedom from wartime controls.

In addition, censorship was restored in Tientsin on the domestic press. It does not appear to be affecting foreign press dispatches from that city.

The measures began the past month during the heat of the student demonstrations, which started as agitation for more food allowances and wound up as anti-civil war demonstrations.

New Turbo-Jet Engine Produced by Air Forces

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The Army Air Forces disclosed today that six years' of secret work has developed the most powerful American turbo-jet engine yet announced.

This new engine, designated as the X-37, packs more power than a diesel electric railroad engine, but has less than one-fifth of one percent of the Diesel's weight.

LABOR BILL —

labor abuses without destroying labor's rights."

The CIO said in a statement that the bill is "loaded with subterfuge and insidious legal technicality intended primarily to disrupt and confuse collective bargaining relations."

"It offers a period of confusion and disorganization in our labor laws, from which this country will suffer for years to come."

The CIO said the bill as compromised between Senate and House versions is packed "with anti-labor devices, with restrictions and impediments upon any collective bargaining and with irresponsible meddling in the administrative operation of the national labor relations board and in the industrial relations structure of the nation."

Some major provisions of the bill, subject of weeks of hot controversy between backers and opponents, would:

1. Give the Government an injunction weapon to stop "national calamity" strikes during an 80-day period of efforts to settle the disputes by mediation.

2. Forbid various kinds of lesser strikes and boycotts, and ban the closed shop which requires a boss to hire only union members.

3. Make it an unfair labor practice for unions to keep non-strikers from jobs by mass picketing or violence.

4. Permit law suits against unions for unfair labor practices.

5. Create a new agency to mediate disputes, outside the Labor department.

Chairman Hartley (R-N.J.), of the House labor committee, said in a statement:

"If the president so disregards the wishes of the American people—including labor's rank and file—and the Congress by vetoing this measure, no doubt will exist that the CIO is again the major political power at the White House."

In opening debate, Hartley told the House "If you want to meet face-to-face John L. Lewis and anyone else who tries to tie up our economy, then you will approve this bill."

"This bill," he said, "is written primarily to put labor and management on an equal basis, and to protect the general public."

Spelling Bee Conducted By Sanatoga Grangers

On the suggestion of the Rev. Ralph Teitworth that his proposed talk on parent-child relationship to the Sanatoga grange last night would take all evening, the address was postponed to a later date and a spelling bee substituted in addition to the scheduled play, Business Meeting, by ten women grangers.

Harold Romler won the spelling bee.

The newly-formed Girl Scout troop sponsored by the grange received a troop committee last night when Mrs. Dorothy Miller, Mrs. John Born and Mrs. Russell Castell were named committee members.

The Eagles attendance team won last night's attendance contest. Elnelbert P. Barnard, master, directed the meeting.

get over them quickly. We don't nurse any grudges," the little wife remarked. "We've never used our fists," added Mr. Renninger.

He went on to say that Dr. J. J. Kline, who married them in his home at Swamp, dropped in on the couple two years after the marriage and observed that happy marriages seldom came without occasional tiffs.

Before their wedding a half-century ago Mrs. Renninger, the only daughter in her family, besides helping her mother with all the housework, used to make an average of 40 pairs of trousers a day which she sold for ten cents a pair.

In addition she did a lot of quilting which is still her favorite pastime. "She'd rather quilt than do almost anything else," her white-haired husband said.

Renninger worked on his father's New Hanover farm before he was married and then took over the farm after the wedding.

With a backward glance over 50 happy, productive years, the couple's considered advice to modern newlyweds was, "Stay home and work."

Four of the Renningers' sons served in the armed forces in the past war with three seeing overseas duty. The children range in age from 24 to 45.

The pair will not hold the celebration of the anniversary today but plan to wait until Sunday when all of their children and most of their 15 great grandchildren can be on hand. They will have open house from 1 to 4 p.m.

Legislators Debate Immigration Proposal

WASHINGTON, June 4 (P)—A measure to permit immigration of 400,000 homeless European war refugees was halled on Capitol Hill today as a duty and a money-saving device. It was also denounced as a move allowing entry of "crackpots, Communists and troublemakers."

The claims and counterclaims were advanced before a House judiciary subcommittee on immigration. It opened public hearings on what—if anything—Congress should do about the plight of 700,000 to 850,000 persons still in displaced persons camps.

Rep. Stratton (R-III) argued for his Administration-supported bill to bring 400,000 of them into this country over a four-year period. He said this number constitutes a "fair share" for the United States in meeting a "moral obligation" to support their determination not to return to Communist-dominated lands.

Mississippi expects to double its pre-war $120,000,000 tourist business in 1947-48.

Phalanx Won and Here's a Good Reason Why

Phalanx Faultless Brabancon Tailsip Tide Rips

In the races he was supposed to win (Derby, Preakness and Peter Pan) Phalanx, the C. V. Whitney colt, came "on" in the stretch but he was too far behind to make up the ground and he failed to reward his backers. In the Belmont, however, he also came "on" in the stretch but he was up with the leaders and his finishing speed enabled him to win easily. Phalanx is shown here, on the extreme outside, as the field turned into the stretch in the Belmont. Note he's right with the leaders, including Faultless, who ran out of gas and finished fifth.

McGuire Award Given Two Boys At Boyertown

Bruce Bernhart and Victor Prutzman were co-recipients of the McGuire award for outstanding participation in athletics at Boyertown High school. Presentation of the trophy was at the closing school assembly yesterday.

Bernhart, it was pointed out yesterday, is the only young man in Boyertown High history to be a four-letterman for two consecutive years. He was a member of the football, basketball, baseball and track teams. Prutzman was a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams.

Previous winners of the coveted McGuire trophy include Charley (Truck) Scheeler, Dick Reese, Gerald Karver, Molly Bryan, James Albitt and Robert (Skip) Fisher. No award was made a year ago. Names of winners are engraved on the trophy, which is placed in the trophy case in the high school gymnasium.

Girls who received letters were A. Stitzel, M. Mohr, D. Downer, A. Renninger, H. Reese, M. Grote, G. Schultz, M. Albright, I. Brannan, A. Schmidt, L. Kline, J. Kohler, M. Grim, S. Martin, B. Yoder and F. Seasholtz. They were awarded for softball and cheerleading.

In addition to Bernhart, who is a four-letterman, Victor Prutzman, a three-letterman, Richard Campbell also is a three-striper. He played football, basketball and baseball. Two-lettersmen include Jack Eckhart, Robert Reidenauer, Richard Schott, Fred Smith, Jack Rothenberger, Paul Moatz, Charlie Neiman, Eugene Johnson, William Levensood, Philip West, Durrell Blank and Donald Hoffman.

Lettersmen include Bill Hallman, Roy Geiger, Bill Magee, Malcolm Balmer, Laverne Stimmel, Richard Neiman, Richard Steltz, Paul Rudy, Robert Dierolf, Ralph Moyer, Bill Dunkelberger, John Hibbs, David Longacre, Robert Roberts, John Renninger, Herman Kump, Harry Muller, Jack Schumley, Henry Zajac and Robert Scott.

Junior varsity letters were awarded to Frain, L. Miller, R. Kulp, Del Grosso, Gross, Johnson, Straube, B. Fisher, Gabel, Body, R. Rothenberger, E. Mackey, Pettijohn, Standhardt, Herman, H. K. Johnson and R. Reiff.

Letters for management of various teams went to Marie Swinehart, Roy Geiger, Donald Faust, Harold Meadway and Robert Scott.

Following presentation of awards, three members of the varsity track team presented trophies to the school — mementoes of victories on the 1947 cinderpath. Jack Rothenberger gave the plaque won by the 400-yard relay team at Venke relays, Boyertown. Capt. Henry Zajac presented the trophy the mile relay team captured at the West Reading meet and Rothenberger gave the trophy awarded to the one-half mile relay team for capturing the championship of Berks county at the Venke relays.

George Unger presented the junior high school trophy to the school. George B. Swinehart, supervising principal, received the awards in behalf of the school. Presenting the letters were Lawrence E. Grim, high school principal and director of athletics, and Robert L. Fleming, coach and science teacher.

BETTER PROGRAM Pleased with the successful race meet held on Memorial Day, Spring City Driving association has planned an even larger matinee for the Fourth of July, at Spring City driving park. The card will include harness events, runners, flat races and pony races.

QUOT CLUB LOSSES The Pottstown Quot Club dropped a 6-4 decision to the Bechtelsville Giants last night on the latter's field. Chump Pollick and Chick Hawk took care of the pitching chores for the losers.

MEETING TONIGHT Boyertown camp 104, POS of A baseball team will meet Geigersville on Gabelsville athletic field tonight at 6:45 o'clock.

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP)—Curvball specialist Hank Borowy pitched the Chicago Cubs back into a tie for the National league lead with the New York Giants today by shutting out Manager Mel Ott's crew 6-0 on four hits.

Borowy, in his best game of the season so far, faced only 31 batters and was working on a no-hitter: until Willard Marshall broke the spell by singling with one down in the fifth.

The score remained tied until the third when Doehler's went to work and sewed up the tilt. With one out, Ed Kovach spanked a one base knock to right field and took second on Gerry Egolf's single to short. Don Stauffer walked filling the bases and Pieffer drilled a ball to right field that eluded Harold Shaner and three runs scored.

Phillies Take Second From Reds As Ken Heintzelman Chalks Up Third Straight Victory by 9-2

PHILADELPHIA, June 4 (AP)—Ken Heintzelman made the first start of his career against the Cincinnati Reds today and aided by a 12-hit attack on three Red pitchers hurled the Philadelphia Phillies to a 9-2 triumph before 3810. It was the Phils' sixth victory in seven starts against the Ohioans.

The Phillies took a 2-0 lead in the first when Harry Walker doubled and scored on Andy Seminick's triple. Seminick crossed the plate on Benny Zientara's poor throw. Cincinnati picked up a run in the second on Bert Haas' triple and Grady Hatton's fly. The Phils added three more in the fifth to go in front 5-1.

Emil Verban singled with one out and was sacrificed to second. Skeeter Newsome walked and Harry Walker was hit by a pitched ball. A wild pitch sent Verban home and Del Ennis' single sent the other two over.

Cincinnati counted one in the eighth and in the Phils' half, hits by Howie Schultz and Verban, a pass to Walker, Del Ennis' single, a pass to Seminick and John Wyrostek's safety added four more runs to make it 9-2.

as a prop to the school system and as an insurance of a well-educated citizenry that would be able to stand up against the "moral inroads of Communism."

Four members of the graduating class, earlier in the program, discussed briefly different phases of the crisis.

Jean E. Belman sketched the background of the educational shortcomings; Betty Jane Miller traced the factors in the disintegration of schools in many communities; Yvonne A. Kuntzman described the deteriorating school buildings and equipment; and Shirley Anne Schurr asked for larger Federal and State allocations for school purposes.

Following a soprano solo by Anna Mae Givin, the president of the class of 1947, M. Rodney Cannell, presented the class mantle to the incoming Senior class head, Donald Rothenberger.

The class awards were made by supervising principal Paul H. Grim after a piano solo played by Miss Belman.

The Pottstown Rotary club award went to Nancy Suzanne Whiteco and Luke Cisaruk; the North Coventry Alumni association award to Esther Tyson; the Mrs. Edward L. Gruber Musical award to Miss Belman, Miss Givin and Miss Whiteco; the Mrs. Edna G. Shinehouse Mathematics award to Miss Belman, and the valedictorian award to Miss Schurr.

E. Gilbert Stauffer, president of the school board, made the symbolic presentation of the diploma, the students passing the certificates to each other as the names were read, and each reversing the tassel on his mortarboard to signify the completion of his graduation.

In addition to those already mentioned, the graduates included: E. M. Baker, Harold K. Bean, Myrtle K. Bean, June E. Bechtel, Marian E. Brower, Marjorie E. Cabano, Franklin I. Clouser, Raymond H. Cole, Marian E. Collins and Noel E. Davidheiser.

Also Dorothy L. Evans, James H. Evans, Doris LaRue Fisher, Walter F. Hohl, Joan M. Hopper, Paul R. Kulp, James O. Mauger, William D. Mauger, Franklin Metzler Jr., Maude M. Mourar, Marian L. Moyer, Jane E. Murray, Gordon A. Narn, Francis S. Noble, William F. Richard Jr. and Jeanne A. Schurr.

Also Robert D. Stavrosky, Steve A. Stavrou, Ella I. Thompson, Louise S. Weiss, Frederic C. Wilson and George E. Yost.

In an impromptu speech before presenting the awards, Supervising Principal Paul H. Grim emphasized the need for more funds for raising teachers' pay, telling the class and audience that there are six vacancies in the school now and that there may be four more after this summer.

Grim also announced that the school board would be forced to increase the millage rate at tonight's meeting, although even this raise in the tax would not be enough to meet the teachers' needs.

He asked you to contact your legislators; he pleaded with the North Coventry residents, "although I fear that there is no hope for any real solution of this problem in Pennsylvania for the next two years."

He concluded his talk by deploring the legislative fight against a substantial hike in educators' pay.

Camp Taitt Is Selected For 'Y' Boys' Activities

James F. Baird, Boys Work director of the YMCA, last night made two announcements in connection with "Y" boys' activities.

Camp Taitt, located in 100 acres of woods near Quakertown and 27 miles from Pottstown, has been chosen as the official season camp for the Boys department this year.

The camp, organized in 1938, is modernly equipped and under the direction of Robert E. Lenhart.

Baird also said Monocacy Tribe of Father and Son "Y" Indian Guides will meet tonight at 7 o'clock at the home of Jacob R. Sotter, 833 North Franklin street.

Chief Robert D. Smith will preside at the regular monthly meeting.

pressed belief that normal conditions will eventually be restored in their country as soon as the Hungarian people are "given the opportunity to express their will freely."

Both the minister and young Nagy had been specifically ordered back to Budapest for "consultation." The instructions to Nagy came through only today.

Tonight Szegedy-Maszak said in a radio broadcast that his idea in declining to go home was to remain "where I may still raise my voice for my country."

He said the overturn was "one engineered by outside force," and added:

"And I wish to say that this is a test case for the small, defeated nations as to whether they are to be treated as independent nations or to be consigned to the position of satellites."

The minister said he could not discuss, pending clarification by the State department, the status he will have in America.

Meanwhile, best available sources reported these other developments in a rumor-ridden capital:

A sudden boom in the demand for radios which would receive foreign news broadcasts.

An increased demand for automobiles capable of getting at least as far as the Austrian border.

The border patrol had been almost doubled.

Foreign currency, especially American dollars, was much in demand. There was little stock exchange activity.

A reliable informant said Father Istvan Bolagh, secretary general of the Small Landholders party and close friend of Ferenc Nagy, had been threatened with jail unless he retired from politics and enters a monastery. He is a Catholic priest.

The informant said he had been threatened with prosecution for a "financial arrangement."

Budapest's mayor, another friend of Nagy, was slated to be replaced.

Small Landholder member of parliament said Communists were preparing legislation which would outlaw criticism of their three-year economic plan.

American spokesmen said Col. John H. Stokes Jr., of San Francisco, executive officer of the U. S. military mission, asked War Minister Lajos Dinnyes, now the new pro-Communist premier, for permission to inspect a Hungarian division. Ordinarily such a request would be a mere formality in view of relations between a victor nation and a defeated former enemy.

To Stokes' surprise, however, Dinnyes replied that such a visit would have to be approved by the Allied Control commission.

Sviridov, acting chairman of the Allied Control commission, without consulting the American member of the commission, replied that the proposed inspection would be impossible.

It was recalled here that the Russians on two different occasions in the past year offered to train and equip the Hungarian army. When the Communists sprang their coup the past week, ousting Ferenc Nagy of the Small Landholders party from the premiership and replacing him with Dinnyes, reliable political informants said the change would result in Hungary's now accepting the offer.

Brig. Gen. George Weems of Dickson, Tenn., commander of the U. S. mission, said the request for an inspection would be taken up at the next meeting of the control commission.

West Coast Patrolmen Held on Assault Charge

OAKLAND, Calif., June 4 (AP) — Two Oakland police officers were charged with statutory rape on a 16-year-old high school girl in complaints signed by the girl's mother today.

The complaints named Patrolmen Robert G. Bell, 27, and Edward E. Bauer, 34. Both were identified by the girl as her attackers Saturday night in the Sequoia Park hills, assistant district attorney Robert McCreary said.

The charges said the officers found the girl and a boy friend in the lovers' lane section of the park and promised not to "arrest" the young people on condition the girl submit to them.

Chief Tracy said Bell admitted the charges, but that Bauer had denied them.

Judge's Ruling Sought In Overall Deaths

SANTA ANA, Calif., June 4 (AP) — With jury selection dragging slowly, interest in the Overall yacht death trial shifted today to Los Angeles, where a bank asked the Superior court to rule that financier and Mrs. Walter E. Overall died simultaneously.

Judge Harold B. Jeffrey will be asked to decide tomorrow on the petition, which an attorney for the Farmers and Merchants' National bank said would facilitate payment of bills from the Overall estate and disposal of some of the couple's properties.

The charges, but that Bauer had denied them.

essential element" in a program of national security.

Chairman Andrews (R-NY) of the House armed services committee yesterday announced his group will begin hearings in a week or ten days on the subject. He declined to guess whether a bill could be passed at this session. Such quick passage is regarded as unlikely by other leaders.

Mr. Truman said he appointed the commission to make the study "in an effort to clarify the situation because of a 'great disparity of viewpoint' in Congress last year. He urged now that it 'give early consideration to the subject.'"

In a separate communication, he asked that leaders of both parties in Congress act to speed up action on his requests for early passage of bills extending several war powers beyond June 30.

These include:

1. A bill extending Maritime commission authority to charter oil tankers. Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) said this was asked to avoid a possible oil shortage in the East this winter.
2. A year's extension of the export control act, applying to certain short supply articles.
3. Certain allocation and priority controls applying to food, fertilizers and other scarce commodities.

Pieces of Crashed Airliner Given to Reading Police

State police of the West Reading barracks said last night that seven parts of the Eastern Airlines plane which crashed Friday night near Port Deposit, Md., had been turned in to them following the appearance in a Reading paper of a request by the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the parts.

The CAA message read, "The investigation in discovering the cause of the accident may be hampered by the removal of hundreds of parts of the wreckage as souvenirs," and went on to ask for their return as quickly as possible.

Parts may be turned in to any State police station or the possessor may call the Bainbridge Training station at Port Deposit 2141.

One of the vital missing parts, the left elevator hinge, may reveal the cause of the tragedy, investigators say. The crash killed 53 persons.

Missing Psychiatrist Found in Plane Wreckage

ENDEAVOR, June 4 (AP) — Dr. Robert W. Wheeler, 31, Chicago psychiatrist missing since his plane took off May 25 from Northampton, Mass., was found dead in the wreckage of his ship tonight in a densely wooded section near the Northwest-ern Pennsylvania community of Queens Settlement.

Dr. Wheeler had been on the way home after visiting his fiancée, Joyce Kinsey of Perrysburg, Ohio, a Smith college senior.

Information received by rescue workers to the Pennsylvania State police barracks at Warren said the body and plane were identified by Dr. Wheeler's brother-in-law, Henry L. McIntire of California and a cousin, John D. Hill, of Chicago, who led the rescue party of a dozen or more State and county officers.

Reading Officials Protest Labor Bill

READING, June 4 (AP) — Mayor J. Henry Stump, Socialist, supported by a Democratic city council, and James E. Leshner, chairman of the board of county commissioners, which consists of two Democrats and one Republican, today united in issuing a proclamation setting aside tomorrow as a day of protest against the enactment of the Taft-Hartley labor bill, currently under consideration in the Senate.

The city and county officials acted in co-operation with the united labor committee of Reading, which consists of AFL and CIO and independent unions.

The official joined with the labor unions in signing a petition addressed to President Truman asking that he veto the measure.

NOTED CHEMIST DIES

LOS ANGELES, June 4 (AP) — William Dunn Patten, 81, noted chemist who claimed to have discovered the formula for baking powder, died at his home today.

Animal products are the only foods that provide vitamin A in a form ready for the body to absorb. Vegetables and fruits have yellow pigments called carotene that change into vitamin A in the body. One good way to get vitamin A is to eat plenty of carrots.

ored a softer approach, convinced the Argentines were trying to meet their pledges.

Now that the tension has been brought to a conclusion with willingness by the United States to make plans for an inter-American defense conference with Argentina participating, Messersmith also is expected to resign. He has been in ill health several years.

Mr. Truman told Braden in his letter accepting the resignation: "Your record of public service has been outstanding whether as delegate to international conferences or as ambassador in such important posts as Colombia, Cuba and Argentina. The country has been the beneficiary of your patience and skillful negotiations."

Braden said in his letter that his responsibilities to his family "now make imperative my return to private business at an early date."

L. Samuel Krouse Receives Degree

L. Samuel Krouse, of 412 Highland road, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Luther A. Krouse, was one of a class of 120 men who were graduated from Muhlenberg college, Allentown, this week. He was the recipient of a Bachelor of Arts degree, having majored in religion and philosophy.

Krouse is a graduate of The Hill school, Class of 1944, and intends to enter the Lutheran Theological seminary in Philadelphia this fall to study for the Gospel ministry.

While at Muhlenberg, Krouse was president of the Eta, Sigma, Pi fraternity, an honorary classical language fraternity, and a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha, an honorary philosophy fraternity. He sang with the college choir for four years, served on Student council, was an officer of the Muhlenberg Christian association, and a member of the Mask and Dagger Dramatic club. For one year, he played varsity baseball.
